

The LADIES INVENTION; BEING A Thousand Pounds for Six-pence, to the Fortunate, And the Triple Adventure made into one Lottery.

THe Undertakers of these two Lotteries have joined their Books cut out and their Interest together, for the more speedy and full drawing of the same, which now cannot be doubted but it will be done in few days: of which notice shall be given, and the Adventurers in the Triple Adventure are desired forthwith to change their Tickets, for others in the Ladies Invention. Monies are now actually paying in to the Goldsmiths, and all things are preparing for the drawing the said Lottery.

The Trustees of the Ladies Invention thought this Method much more advantageous, and satisfactory to the Adventurers than to draw that Lottery two Thirds full on the 8th of December Instant, which the Undertakers must have been constrained to do, if then drawn.

¶ All other Lotteries have either proposed great Deductions, or Abatements (which is not allowed in this) or else have proposed such vast and unreasonable Disadvantages, as near 1700 Blanks to one Prize, that they seem rather to be a great Discouragement to any Adventurer, than to deserve the Name of a Fair Lottery.

Prizes 3554

Now the Prizes here are above treble the number than are generally proposed, viz. 3555, and among them very considerable Ones, as you see, so that tho' the Disadvantage is 140 Blanks to one Prize in this, yet the vast Advantages made up by great Prizes, as 100, 500, 100, 50, &c. and those numerous too, makes a full amends to the Adventurer, and consequently must be deemed the Fairest Lottery ever yet set on foot: especially seeing that 1555 Prizes are now added to the first Proposals.

Thus for Six pence Adventure only, there is a fair prospect of getting a Thousand Pounds, which is forty Thousand times as much in real value as your Adventure, and twenty Thousand times as much in other Lots, &c.

The Advantage in this Lottery above others, is, that the Stake you lay down, or Adventure you make, is so little in proportion to the vast Gains the Fortunate may obtain, that 'tis preferable to any other.

And for Satisfaction of such Persons as shall be Adventurers, the following Goldsmiths are appointed to be Cashiers, in whose Hands the Monies arising from the several Books will be deposited: And every Benefit, or Prize, after compared with the Books will be paid by Mr Benj. Tudman at the Crown in Lombardstreet; Mr Rich. Haas, at the Golden Bottle in Fleetstreet; Mr John Pearson at the Unicorn in the Strand; Goldsmiths.

The Undertakers because they would have it drawn compleatly full, have been at vast Charge and Expence to send Books into the Country, which has been seldom, or never done before, so that the Trouble and Expence in managing this, is, and will be of necessity greater than any other.

These Worthy Gentlemen have been pleased to promise the Undertaker to see the fair Drawing of it, which will be done at Frank's Coffee House behind the Royal Exchange. The Honourable Mr O'Brien, Sir Benjamin Trenchard, Kt; James Jackson, Esq; Dr William Coward, Captain John Knap, Richard Halton, Gent.

In the mean time the Engine is preparing for that purpose, which be after a new Mode, made of Glass, that the Billets may be visible to every Spectator, with 4 Doors out of which the Tickets will be drawn, so that it will be impossible to have any thing more fairly and equally Performed.

And every Book-keeper for the Satisfaction of all his Friends that take Tickets from him, shall have liberty to roul up and sow the middle Billets in the Book, and put them into the Engine with his own Hands: The Prizes shall be daily printed as drawn, and signed by the Undertakers and Trustees.

And for a further Incouragement, and Satisfaction to all the Adventurers in this Lottery, the Undertakers do promise that as soon as the Prizes are all drawn, all the Blanks remaining in the Engine shall be duly taken out, Registered and Filled, in order to be searched, that every Adventurer that pleases may there find his Number'd Tickets.
